The Carlton Club Political Committee is delighted to welcome Aphra Brandreth MP and her father, Gyles Brandreth, to the Club for what promises to be a lively and entertaining dinner.

With his characteristic wit and storytelling, Gyles Brandreth will bring a wealth of experience from Parliament, broadcasting, writing and public life to the conversation.

Aphra Brandreth was elected Conservative MP for Chester South and Eddisbury in 2024, following a successful career in business and environmental economics. Since entering Parliament, she has established herself as a thoughtful and energetic new voice in the House of Commons. Her election also continues a notable family connection with the Chester area, where her father previously served as MP for the City of Chester.

The evening will bring together two generations of the Brandreth family for a wide-ranging conversation on Parliament past and present, politics, the monarchy and British public life.

Join us for a memorable evening of conversation, insight and humour.
